NEW HANOVER
HIGH SCHOOL

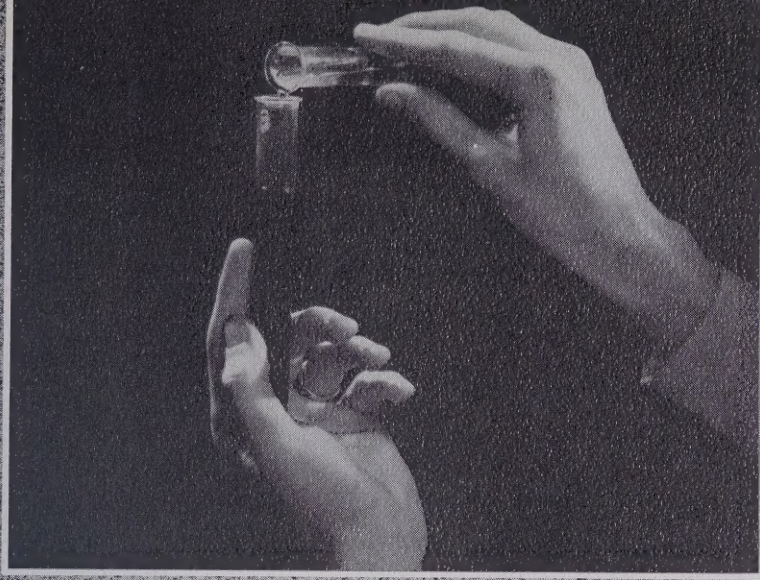

Preface

The purpose of the 1952 HANOVERIAN has been to faithfully record another school year at New Hanover High School. Since this school year has been so outstanding and important to each student involved, it has been a difficult task.

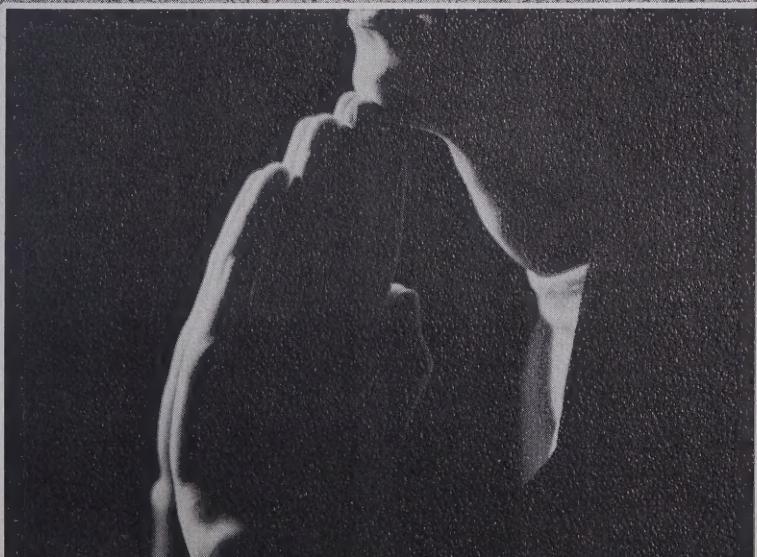

Hands have many consequential effects on our lives. The scientists' hands which are forever seeking new ways in which to make our lives more comfortable; the artists' hands which make our life more enjoyable through sight; the voters' hands which control the destiny of the nation; the homemakers' hands which mold the character of each new generation; the musicians' hands which make our lives more enjoyable through the interpretation and appreciation of good music; the praying hands which symbolize the faith in our efforts to maintain religious ideals—these are but representative of the many influences which shape our lives.

We hope that this HANOVERIAN fulfills your expectations as a constant reminder of your years at New Hanover High School.

To Coach Leon Brogden

for his never ceasing efforts in leading our team to victory; his ever existing sense of fair play, not only in athletics, but in everything which he sets out to do; and his ever ready encouragement, not only to the winner but also to the loser—we, the students of New Hanover High School, dedicate this 1952 HANOVERIAN.

The devotional was always a source of inspiration and guidance. Here Charlotte Prior gives the devotional on a typical school day.

on non-assembly days

One of the most outstanding assembly programs of the year was the National Honor Society induction service. The inset shows Thelma Barclift, inductee, receiving her constitution and membership pin from members, Dan Silvia and Shirley Council.

Cadets went to formation

ROTC uniforms dotted the campus on Mondays and Fridays, for those were the weekly formation days. The cadets marched in proper military form to Thirteenth and Ann where inspection was held.

and Legislature convened

Homeroom period on Thursdays was Legislature time at school. With Vice-President of the Student Council Julian Rogers at its head, the Legislature sponsored many worthy projects.

The band practiced

Monday and Friday mornings found also the ROTC Band at Thirteenth and Ann, where they performed at the ROTC formations.

for appearances in parades

The band members were rewarded for their long hours of diligent practice by the appreciation shown them when they participated in parades.

Safety was emphasized by the frequent fire drills held.

interrupted diligent workers

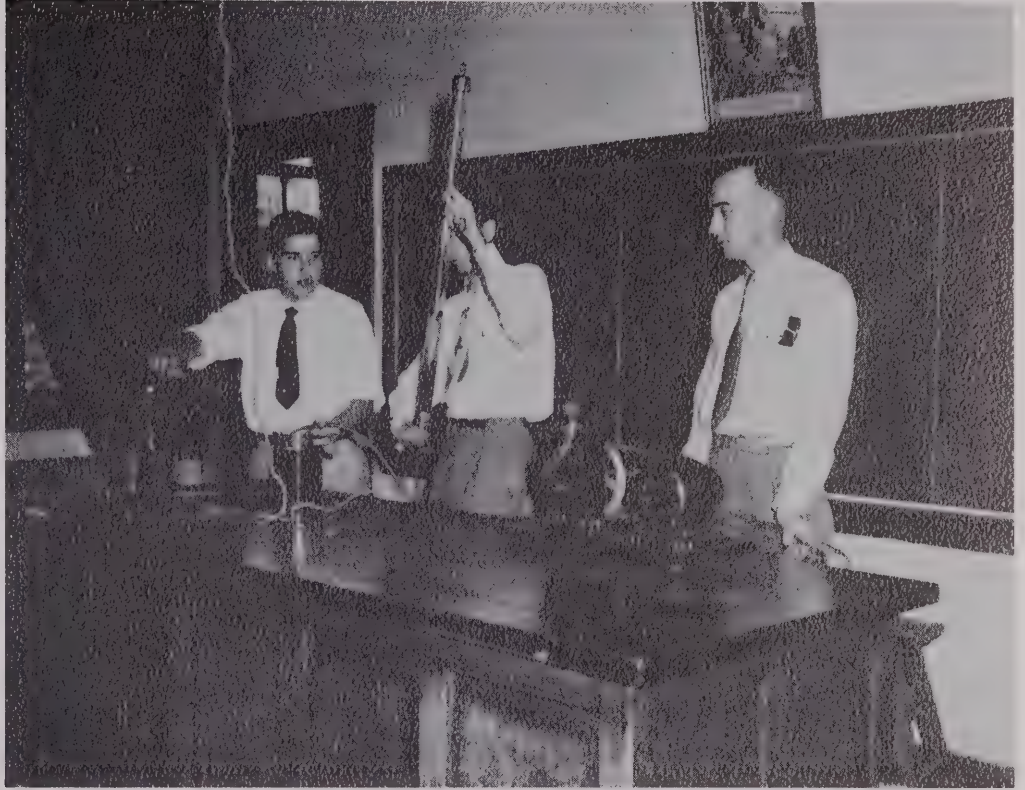

Study Hall was a welcomed break in the daily class routine, for here one could catch up on back homework, read current magazines, or just browse among the books.

Science offered diversion

The Science Department, with Miss Lena Taylor as department head, offered many and varied courses, ranging from general science to chemistry and physics. Biology and advanced biology rounded out the science program.

from the battles of history

Better and thereby happier citizens-in-the-making who share the privileges offered by our democracy resulted from the courses in American history, world history, and government given by the Social Science Department under the chairmanship of Mr. J. H. Lounsbury. A usual class performance was this, as illustrated by Joan Pierce giving an oral report in Mrs. Brock's class.

Language classes formed clubs, and Offering four years of Latin, three years of Spanish, and three years of French, the Language Department, under the chairmanship of Miss Mary Lathrop, led students by true and tried methods to a mastery of a foreign tongue. Oscar Grant, in Miss Lathrop's Latin II class, is seen pointing out the Roman via to his classmates.

English taught self-expression

To enable a student to express his thoughts exactly, to understand to the fullest extent the language of his associates, and to add the beauty of words and deeds to his life was the primary aim of the English Department under the direction of Miss Frances Formy Duval. Here is seen a typical class of English 12 under Miss Virginia Walsh.

Math students sought answers

Miss Texys Morris was the head of the Mathematics Department which included courses of a practical nature, such as consumer mathematics as well as the advanced and highly theoretical courses, such as solid geometry. Miss Levin and Mary Low are seen studying a problem of angles in Plane Geometry.

and chorus presented operettas

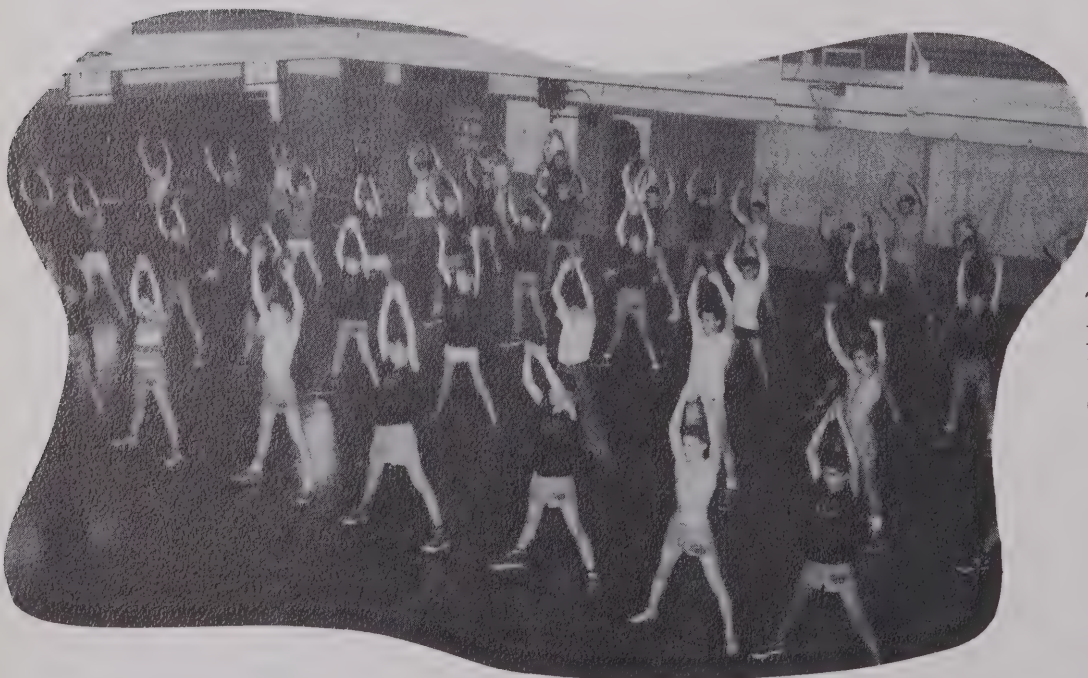

Fortunate were the students of New Hanover High to have such a divergent number of courses from which to select in the Music Department. Mr. Sam Taylor had charge of vocal music, while Mr. Fred Bouknight taught the instrumental music. This scene from the operetta, Danny Dither, which was presented in December, pictures Grant Armstrong, Bobby Franks, Johnny Thomas, and Graham Burkheimer.

Spiritual growth and

Bible I and Bible II were offered by Miss Marion Fislter for those wishing to study the Bible from a historical point of view with some emphasis given on the application of Biblical truths to daily living. The class, as evidenced by this picture, added hymn singing to its activities.

physical fitness were stressed

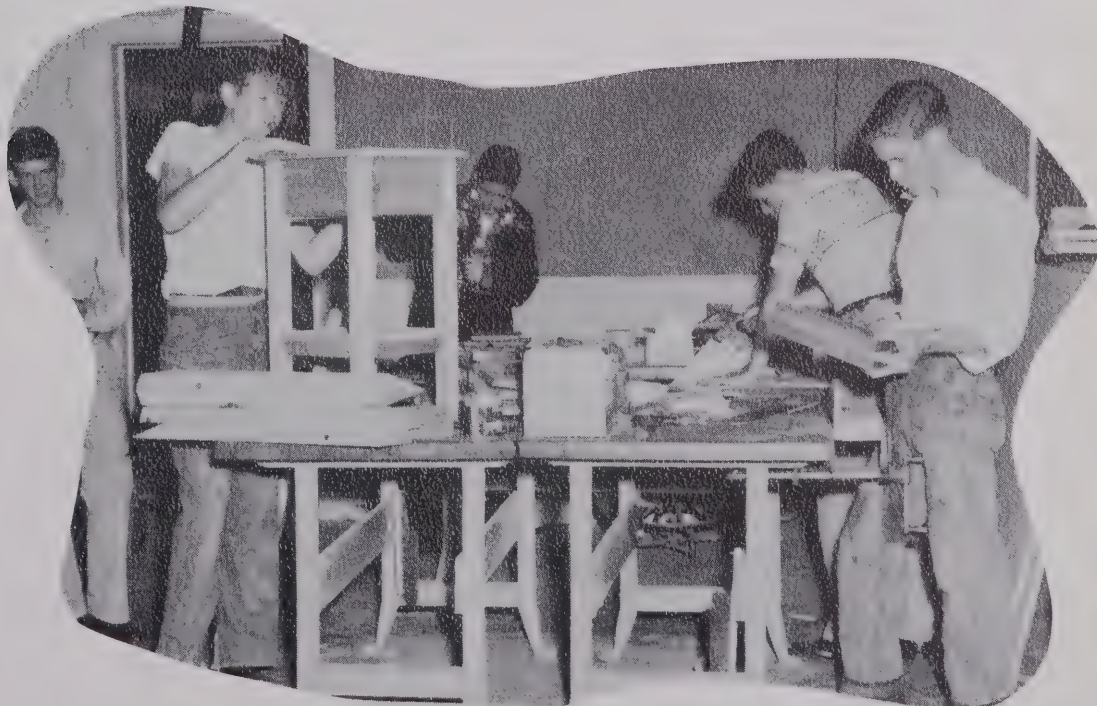

The Health and Physical Education Department under Mr. Leon Brogden consisted of directed physical activity and health instruction. Its benefit in contributing to physical fitness and social growth was obvious. A typical scene was this in a physical education class.

Courses in commercial work and

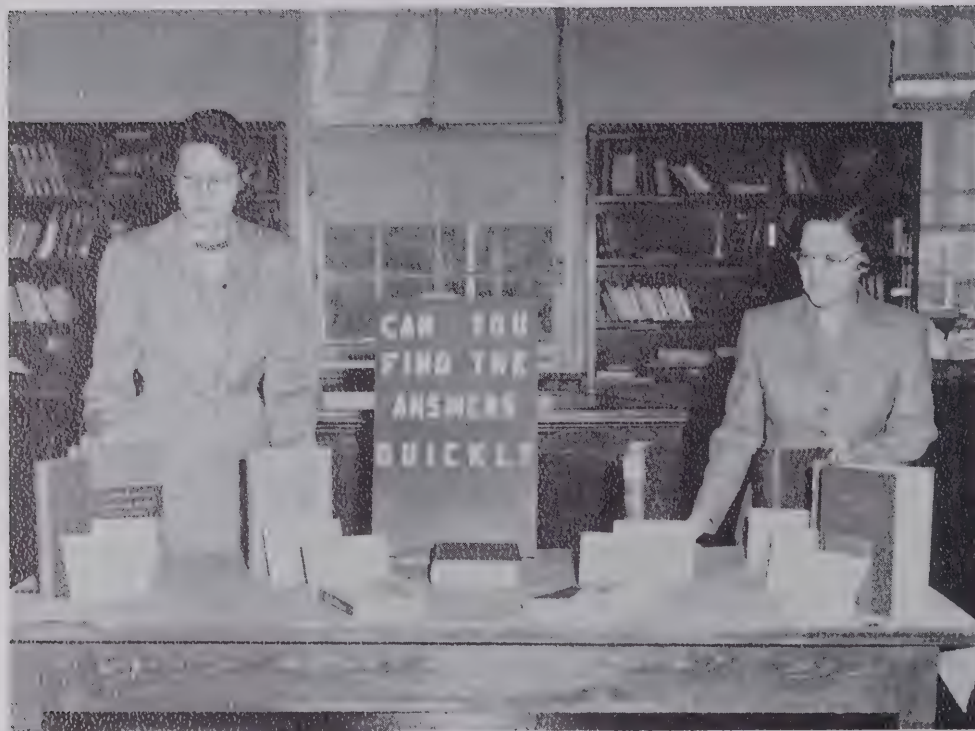

The Commercial Department, under the direction of Mrs. Bernice Bjonerud, offered a variety of courses which trained students to fill almost any type of office position. A group of earnest would-be typists are seen here utilizing some of the equipment with which the department is adequately supplied.

occupations assured good jobs

Practicality was the keynote of the courses offered in the Trade, Industrial Education, and Agriculture Department, whose chairman was Mr. George West. Students trained in such courses as Basic Electricity and Aircraft Mechanics became skilled workers. The activity of this woodwork class shows the seriousness of their learning.

Book festivals and Unique among courses in secondary schools of North Carolina was the course entitled Library Service, which prepares students not only to use the library themselves but also to assist others in locating materials. Helping to maintain attractive and intriguing displays in the library was also a phase of this work. The librarians, Miss Martha Cromartie, left, and Miss Fannie O'Keef, are seen surveying such an exhibit.

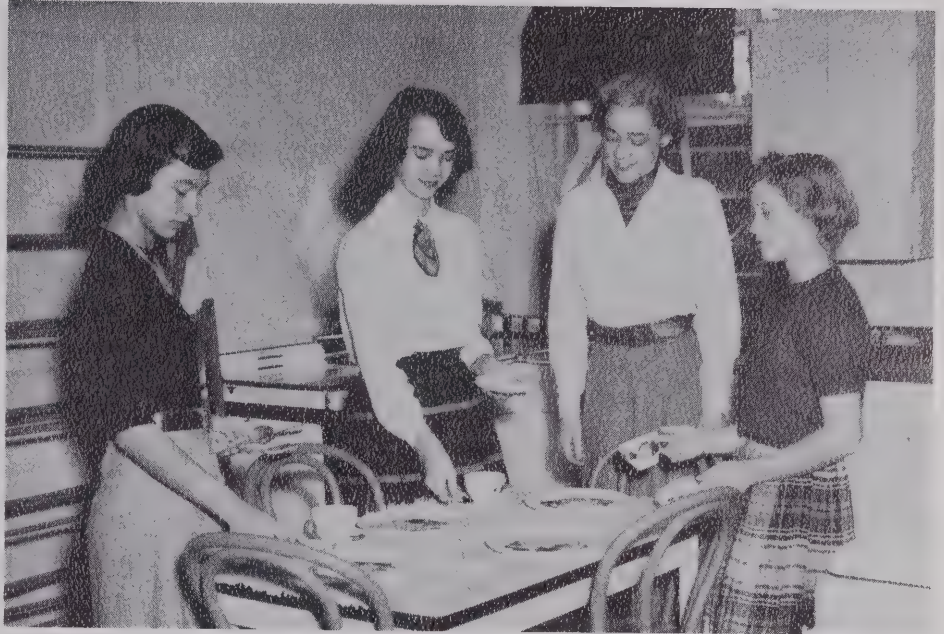

Art emphasized finer points

Art courses offered by Miss Emma Lossen, herself a distinguished painter, were three in number. Training in carving, lettering, color, perspective, house plans, basketry, and practically all other phases of art, were included in these courses. They also served the school and community in artistic ways in a creditable fashion. Miss Lossen's class is shown here busily exercising their talents in oil painting.

Home Economics prepared for

The Home Economics Department, in a beautifully decorated apartment, with Miss Marion Dixon as its coordinator, offered courses not equaled by any other high school in the State. In the three courses available, students learned basic principles of grooming, clothing, cooking, and family living. Advanced pupils had the opportunity of the development of individual skills and a more detailed study preparing them for marriage or careers.

Mrs. Paulson supervised table appointments as (left to right) Linda Pridgen, Pat Wood, and Rachel Bridges arranged them.

future home life

K. C. Ward climbed a tree while Mrs. W. O. Bryant and Ethel Andrews helped Martha Ann McInnis, Carol McFerran, Mimi Burns, and Jane Craig swing.

The nursery school was the only one in a North Carolina high school operated as part of the home economics department. Girls studying the child-care phase of domestic science have the desirable privilege of actually observing and caring for pre-school children. Miss Frances Jordan was the nursery school director.

Drives were successful, and Many drives were held during the course of the year. One of the most successful was the magazine drive.

student body and

“city” officials were chosen

There was always much interest and enthusiasm as the government classes ran the city government for a day. Mitchell Jenkins, jailer-for-a-day, is shown in front of the prison bars displaying his large set of keys.

Lunch time and

Be it fifth or sixth, lunch always proved to be the students' favorite period, for it was a time when they could chat with their friends and relax.

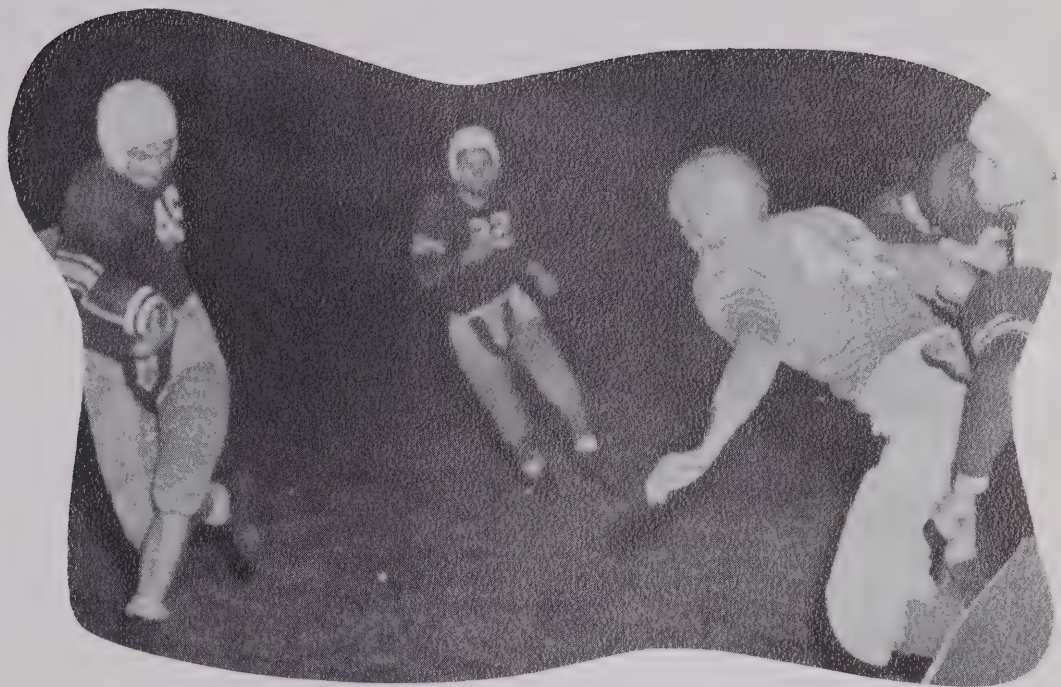

after school were favorite times

After school there were always groups of seniors on the front steps discussing everything from homework to dances and football games.

Perhaps the most outstanding social event of the year, the Junior-Senior Prom, was enjoyed by the juniors as well as the seniors.

The Declamation Contest offered the students a chance to improve their speaking. As Helen Williams receives her award from Mr. W. R. Jones, Jerry Turem and Nathan Skipper look on, waiting for their awards.

The Senior play, "Best Foot Forward," was very successful under the direction of Miss Hovis. Several of the cast members are shown here as they practiced for the production.

MR. DALE KIRK SPENCER

The busy man who headed our school helped every individual who sought his wise advice. His announcements in assembly showed his deep concern for the well-being of all students. It was a pleasant and familiar sight to see him eating an ice cream cone as he observed the activities of the lunchroom. He withheld his friendship from no one, and for his smile one needed to pay only a greeting. It is hoped that the school reflected his high ideals in its sportsmanship, scholarship, and social events. Admired by both students and faculty for being an excellent organizer, a superb administrator, and a true scholar, New Hanover High School's principal deserved the credit he received for the successfulness of his school system.

The principal directed the school assisted by vice-principal,

MR. GEORGE GRIFFIN BROWN

He was interested in each problem simple or complex. He was the one who found jobs, recommended colleges, and discussed careers for the puzzled students. Since all extracurricular activities and appointments connected with them had to be approved by him, his task seemed endless yet he had time to discuss the smallest problem with any student or to take Mr. Spencer's place whenever it was necessary always maintaining his jovial spirit.

secondary-school supervisor,

MR. JOHN HORTON LOUNSBURY

Supervision is a service activity which exists to help students and teachers create conditions under which all can think and work. Mr. Lounsbury's position as supervisor of secondary school education made his assistance invaluable in New Hanover High. Although his duties were seemingly undefined, they were boundless. From the smallest task of coaching a student who was deficient in history to representing Mr. Spencer at the meeting of the Southern Association of Secondary Schools and Colleges, Mr. Lounsbury proved his worth as a supervisor.

ever vigilant deans, and registrar

MISS ELIZABETH MONTGOMERY
Registrar

Whether for an advance excuse to go to a ball game or for advice concerning intimate problems, the deans in their friendly way lent assistance to any pupil who asked for it and contacted others who needed help in some way or another. Maintaining also contact with pupils by classroom teaching, they played their double role with admirable efficiency and understanding.

A school directory, a compilation of permanent records, a class schedule, a curriculum bulletin, a standard of friendliness and graciousness—all represented not a library or a bureau of statistics, but is all in New Hanover High School knew, the registrar. With a ready answer for seemingly any question about the personnel, the course of study, the athletic program, or anything concerning the school, Miss Montgomery was an indispensable member of the administration.

while judges reproved violators

Judges

"Order in the court!" Another session had started with traffic violators trying to convince the student court judges of their justice. Valuable experience was gained through these legal procedures.

brought in by judicial marshals

Judicial Marshals

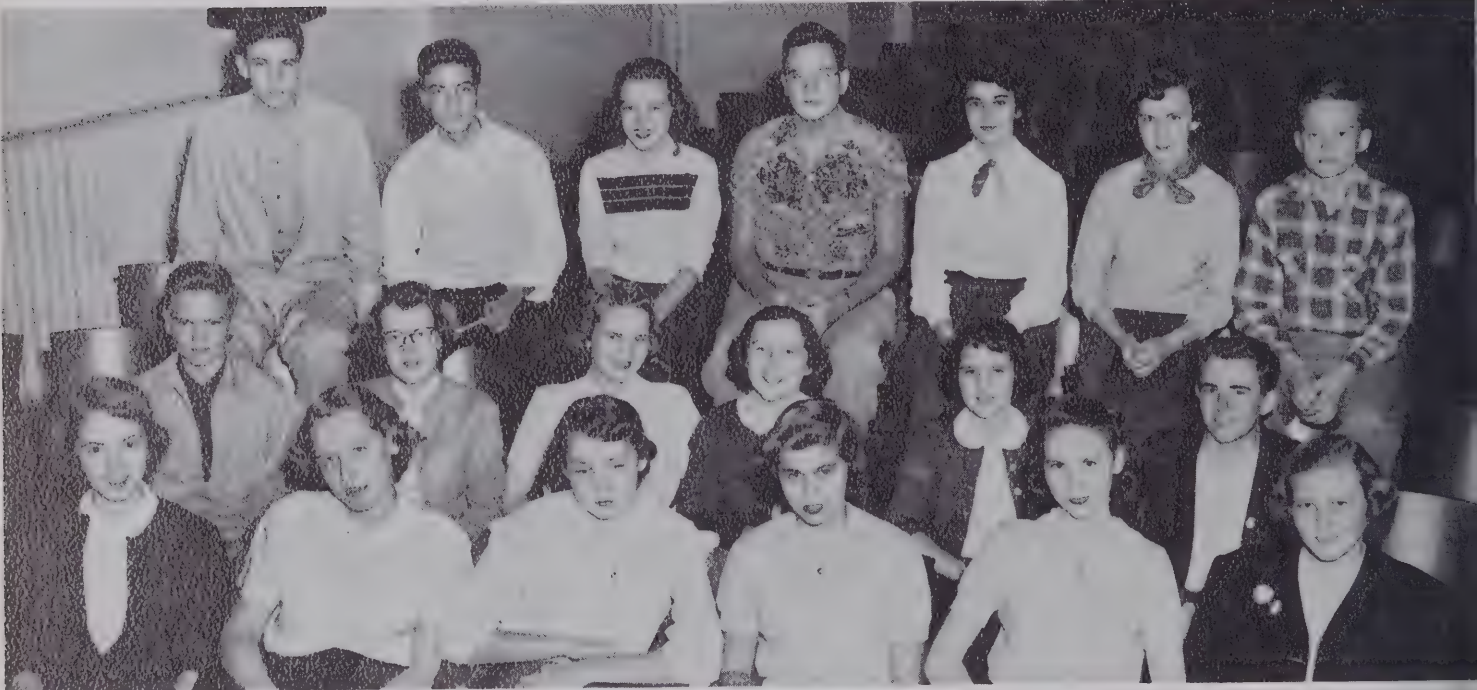

"Wonder if I can make it across the street before the light changes?" Many such remarks could be heard as students warily glanced toward the marshals guarding their respective posts at street intersections and tower steps. These marshals played a great part in maintaining traffic laws inside and outside the building.

Legislature performed duties

Senate

This body, made up of six members from each class, sponsored many worthwhile projects in cooperation with the House of Representatives. One of the most important Senate projects was the stationery drive directed by Suzanne Shepherd. These capable students demonstrated their ability to carry out well formulated ideas.

for improvement of the school

House of Representatives

The House sponsored a very successful magazine drive, headed by Billy Warwick, as their main project of the year. Working together with members of the Senate, they purchased stone benches for the school premises, installed electric water coolers in the Isaac Bear Building, appropriated money for fluorescent lights in the halls, and improved the student government room by adding drapes, venetian blinds, and painting the desks and the floor. The members of the House of Representatives willingly shouldered every responsibility for the improvement of the school.

Julian Rogers, President of House

Skilled homeroom leaders

Homeroom Chairmen

The capable homeroom chairmen were helpful in many ways. Their duties included everything from directing the magazine drive to reading the bulletin. Many were responsible for setting up a schedule for devotionals to be given in various homerooms in order to inspire a more serious and trouble-free way to begin each day. These students were elected on the basis of their leadership ability.

Future Homemakers of America

The F.H.A. Chapter encouraged community projects, better family relationships, and international good will. The members were kept busy with various duties in regard to future "domestic-problem mastering." Their officer-induction ceremonies, held early in the fall, were very beautiful and inspiring.

Pepperettes

"Let's all yell and show them we mean business!" The energetic Pepperettes' main object was to help the cheerleaders. For the Homecoming game they made unique black and orange shakers, which they sold to make money for the Cheerleaders' Dance decorations and to buy the lovely gift for the Varsity Sweetheart of 1951-1952.

National Honor Society

To most students the National Honor Society represents the culmination of their high school career. The thrill of belonging to this society of high principles was displayed at meetings as the newly inducted members attended for the first time. The members were chosen on the basis of their ability to uphold and extend the four cardinal principles of the society: scholarship, leadership, service, and character.

Learning to speak Spanish

Spanish Clubs

Fun-filled Spanish classes proved to be educational as well as pleasurable. The hundreds of vocabularies, the endless conjugations of verbs, and the queer placement of pronouns at first baffled, but finally led to a reading knowledge of Spanish, an enrichment of their native English, and a better understanding of our Latin-American neighbors and their motherland.

Spanish club meetings brought enjoyment and color to the classes with movies, records of "Yma Sumac," and speakers like Mrs. Williams, a former resident of Mexico.

Second-year Spanish students enjoyed reading Spanish short stories and books with Spanish backgrounds. Occasionally excellent projects, such as the model of a hacienda, won everyone's attention and admiration.

Government Clubs

"Mr. Chairman, I move the previous question." Through such remarks students displayed a knowledge of the correct use of parliamentary procedure. Enthusiastic club members sponsored baskets for needy families at Thanksgiving and Christmas. Local civic leaders and other invited guests gave inspirational talks to the members. Dr. Frank Lovejoy's message stressing the importance of racial and religious groups working together to help create a better understanding of the rights of United States citizens, will long be remembered. The year was highlighted by the annual spring trip to Washington, D. C., where the students saw the shrines of our national government.

Christian atmosphere prevailed

Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y clubs strove, through their various influential activities, to promote high standards and to develop character by living up to their ideals—clean speech, clean scholarship, clean athletics, and clean living. Members of the co-ordinating committee mapped out the yearly activities, in which the individual chapters wholeheartedly took part. Outstanding among yearly activities was the Week of Prayer, held early in December. Bean suppers promoted a Christian atmosphere and closer fellowship among members.

Thespians spent a busy year

The lights were on. The curtain had fallen. Another year's production of plays put on by the enthusiastic Thespians had been completed. Under the able direction of Miss Doris Hovis, members staged and presented The Dear Departed, an assembly hit. Highlighting the spring calendar was the colorful production of Cinderella. In April a cast journeyed to Chapel Hill, where they presented The Finger of God in the annual Carolina Dramatic Festival. Backstage artists worked as student directors, technicians, and committee members. Climaxing the year was the late spring production of The Finger of God and a comedy, Everything Nice.

Band won state-wide recognition

Through top performances, the high school band won great acclaim this year. Playing at all local football games and at as many out-of-town games as possible, the band, under the direction of Mr. Fred Bouknight, boosted the morale of the team. Band members, clad in appropriate orange and black uniforms, represented NHHS in all local parades. In March the band took part in the district band contest and part in the Southeastern North Carolina Band Clinic held in Greensboro in April. In May a wonderful concert was presented. Members upheld their reputation as fine musicians.

with clever cartoons, newsy scoops

On every other Thursday, eager students awaited delivery of their WILDCATS. Eyes lighted up as members of the busy circulation staff, ably managed by Miss Jean Bostian, entered the homerooms to deliver subscriptions and to sell extra copies. The journalism class, under the faithful and extremely helpful guidance of Mrs. Eliza Symmes, had the responsibility of producing the paper. Inexperienced at the beginning of the year, the class soon became adjusted to its new responsibility; and within a few weeks, the first paper was produced. Editor-in-Chief Irene Emory performed her tasks well as she planned front-page layouts, filled in gaps, and advised and assisted her staff. Staff members competently scooped news, composed writeups, typed, proofread, drew up pages, and rushed copy to the printer. Members of the ad staff energetically solicited ads from local merchants. Miss Katherine Brown was in charge of the business affairs of the paper. Reporters supplied timely information, which the staff edited. Cartoonists originated clever cartoons to carry out the theme of writeups. This year's WILDCAT staff was responsible for creditable publications.

Handbook Committee

"Look it up in the handbook!"

This typical statement proved to be helpful advice. The Orange and Black Handbook, a small but complete compilation containing club information, a copy of the school constitution, and a list of traffic regulations, was produced after much hard work by cooperative committee members. Beginning their work during the summer, the members had the handbook ready for students' use early in the school year.

Telephone Directory Committee

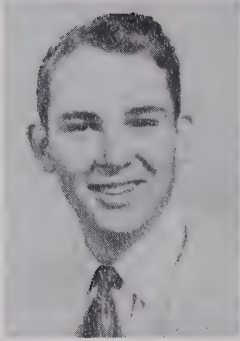

Hours of alphabetizing, typing, and proofreading produced the 1951-'52 Student Telephone Directory. Ohs and ahs were heard as students received and examined the attractive green books with the cleverly designed covers showing a typical high school girl using the telephone. This competent committee produced an accurate directory, which proved to be useful to both students and teachers, especially during the Christmas card season.

hoping to produce fine yearbook

Joan Pierce, Junior Editor, and Mrs. Mary Wyche Mintz, adviser, looked on with interest as Editor-in-Chief Maurice King explained an idea for his school-life section.

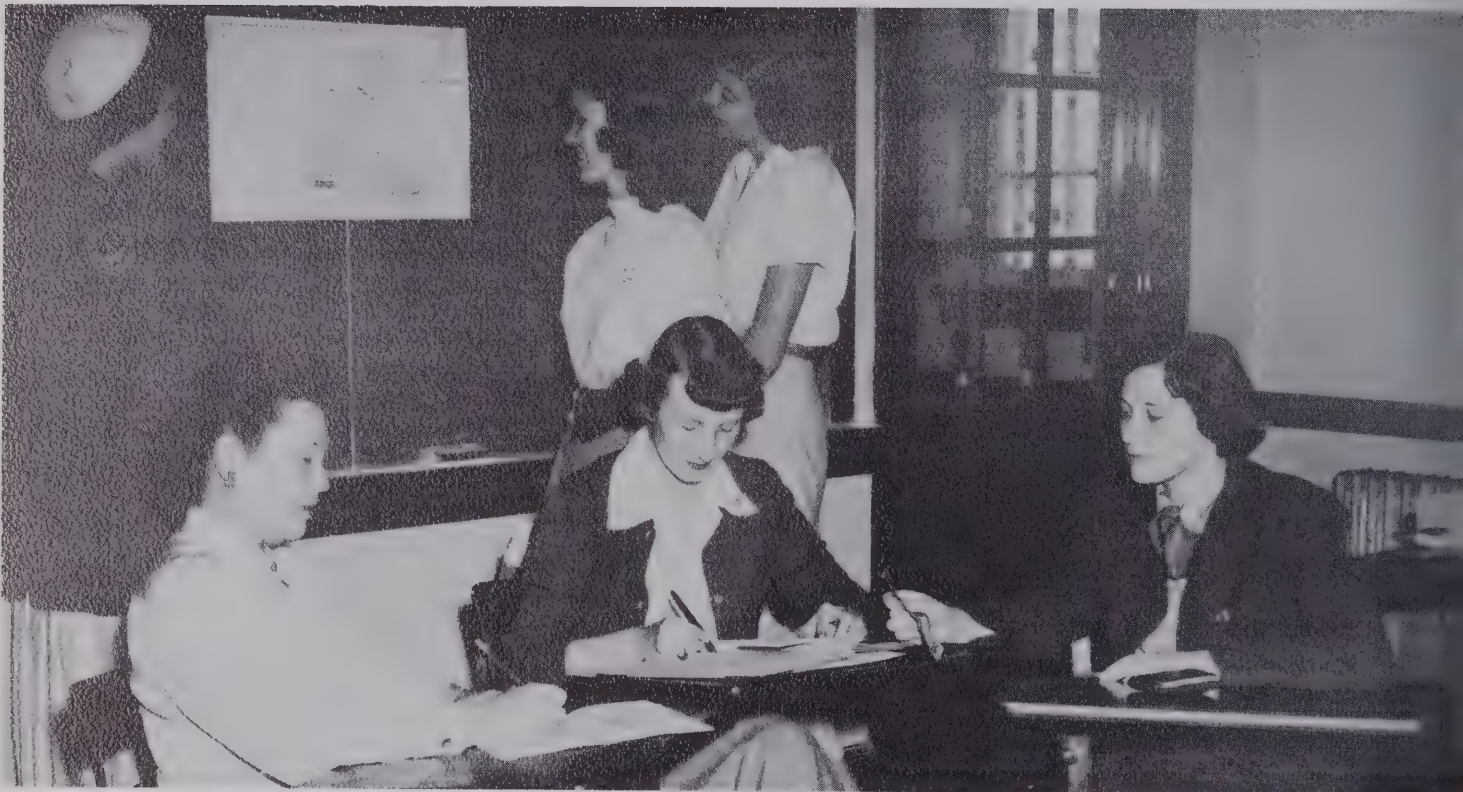

Billy Pape and Sara Warren patiently drew page layouts.

Hanoverian Staff

"Hand me some more copy sheets, please; and hurry up with that writeup!" Each day at fifth period the HANOVERIAN staff members darted about, gathering club information, identifying pictures, scheduling pictures, preparing writeups, and designing pages. The mammoth task of producing a yearbook of this size and this quality, with all of the accompanying problems, was completed after long hours of tedious work.

Top, left: Edith Borjes surveyed a schedule of club pictures to be taken, while Ann Von Cannon and Helen Stevens planned a club writeup.

"Forward march!" This familiar order was often heard on Monday and Friday mornings at formation. Cadets busily shined brass as they prepared for Friday inspections. Rivalry ran high, for each company strove to win the honor braid.

Boys taking this three-year course received one-half unit at the completion of each year. In classes cadets studied military tactics and military history, and on the drill field they carried on maneuvers. NHHS was represented by its distinguished cadets in all local parades.

Senior girl sponsors, chosen by their respective companies, marched with the ROTC at all formations.

Energetic girl athletes

The Girls' Athletic Association was organized to encourage more diversified sports for girls. This year the organization strove to meet the needs of all the girls and to stress the enjoyment of sports and the beneficial development of character through sportsmanship. The top award in the field of girls' athletics was the State Girls' Athletic Association pin, for which any member could qualify if she had acquired eight hundred points. These points were earned by the members on the basis of their extent in participating in all the sports offered. The highlight of the year was the State Play Day, which was held at Woman's College in Greensboro. The organization elected ten members who were outstanding in the field of athletics and most deserving of such an honor to represent them at this event.

Kneeling: Adele Mann, Noel Jones. Standing: Sherry Rich, Rita Hodges, Ginger Keister, Jennie Lee Bartlett, Sally Hicks, Louise Saunders, and Marian Brown.

enjoyed tennis matches

The tennis team, an outgrowth of the Girls' Athletic Association, provided a source of worthwhile recreation for its members. During the spring tennis season, the girls held competition matches among themselves in which they eagerly participated. Although they did not compete in matches with other schools, they looked forward to such a program in the near future. This team held a high place among girls' athletics.

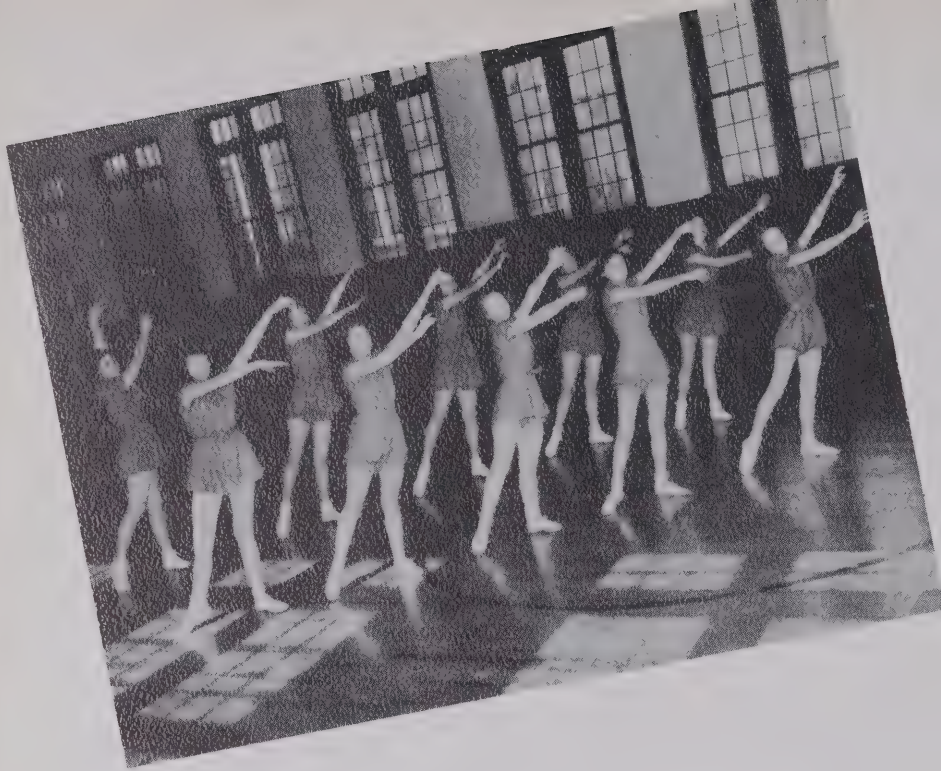

Leaders in athletics

These assistants are junior and senior students who have had two years of physical education and who have proved superior, in leadership, character, and athletic ability. To call the class roll, to direct activities of their squad, to referee games during the class periods, and to assist students in learning skills and techniques, and to assist in the Junior High Intramural Program were among the numerous activities and duties of these able assistants.

These deserve congratulations for their willingness to aid other students:

encouraged more sports

Basketball was a favorite among gym students this year. Leslie Hereford is seen shooting, while Juanita Hales, Ludie Matthews, and Pat Swart stayed alert and ready to receive the ball.

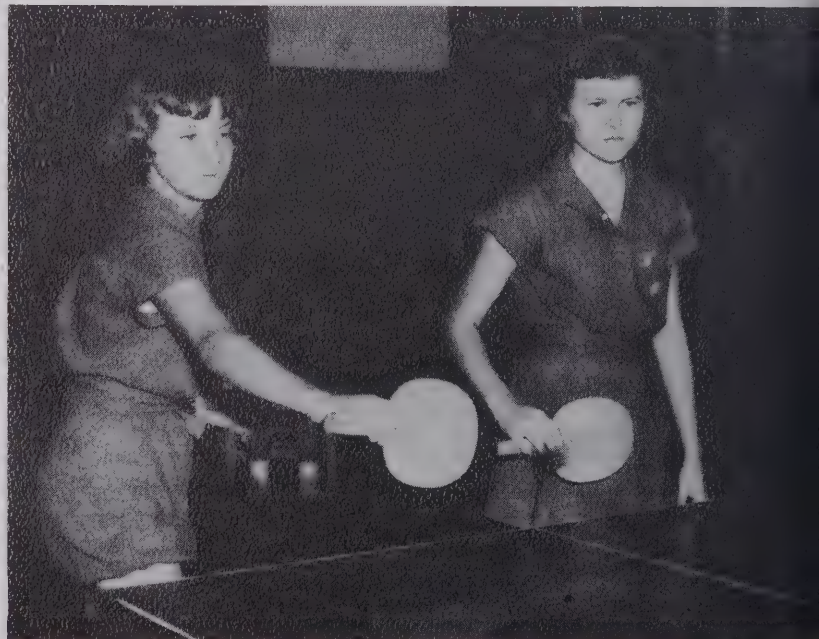

Table tennis is an exercise for the alert mind as well as for the active body. Shown above are Sally Yopp and Carolyn Jenkins.

1951-1952 Champions

Electric tension ran through the crowd as the team lined up and prepared for the always spectacular kickoff. Undefeated, and tied only once, the Black and Orange walked off the field in High Point with the State A.A.A. championship. This title was not our team's only impressive feat. The champions have played in the Piedmont Bowl in Winston-Salem on December 7, and in the Orange Bowl in Miami, Florida, on December 14. Our co-captains added to the team's honors by being selected as participants in the annual Shrine Bowl game. N.H.H.S. 1951-1952 football team was one to be proud of.

Shirley Seagroves, Varsity Sweetheart

The State Football Champions celebrated this year by selecting attractive Shirley Seagroves as Varsity Sweetheart. Shirley was crowned at the Football Finals Dance which was sponsored by the cheerleaders. Nancy Bruce, head cheerleader, presented Shirley with a silver bracelet with the inscription: "Shirley Seagroves, Varsity Sweetheart, 1951-1952." Sonny Jurgensen and George Johnson, in the absence of the co-captains, crowned her and presented her with a bouquet of red roses. The gym was decorated with green and white streamers and balloons. Featured at one end of the gym was a red heart through which the Sweetheart entered. Acting as crown-bearer for the event was little Sherry Hatcher. Swordbearer was little Bill Baugh.

Wildkittens gained experience

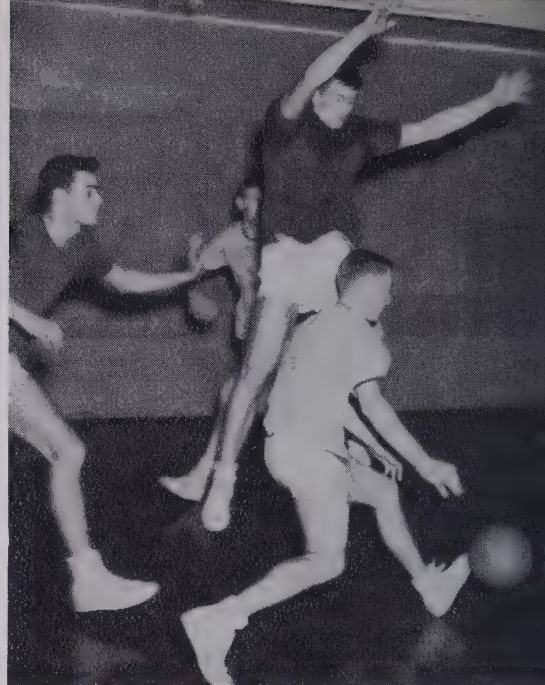

The Junior Varsity football team played a hard conference schedule during the year. Though they were not always victorious, the Wildkittens displayed their love of the sport and a winning spirit all season. The excellent training they received under Coach Speacht will be a great asset to these future varsity players.

Rex Hardy and Jon Gerdes leaped for the ball at the regular afternoon practice.

Julian Rogers
Rex Hardy
Fred Kelly
Danny Nye
George Gaddy
Jon Gerdes
Leon Holden
Don Morton

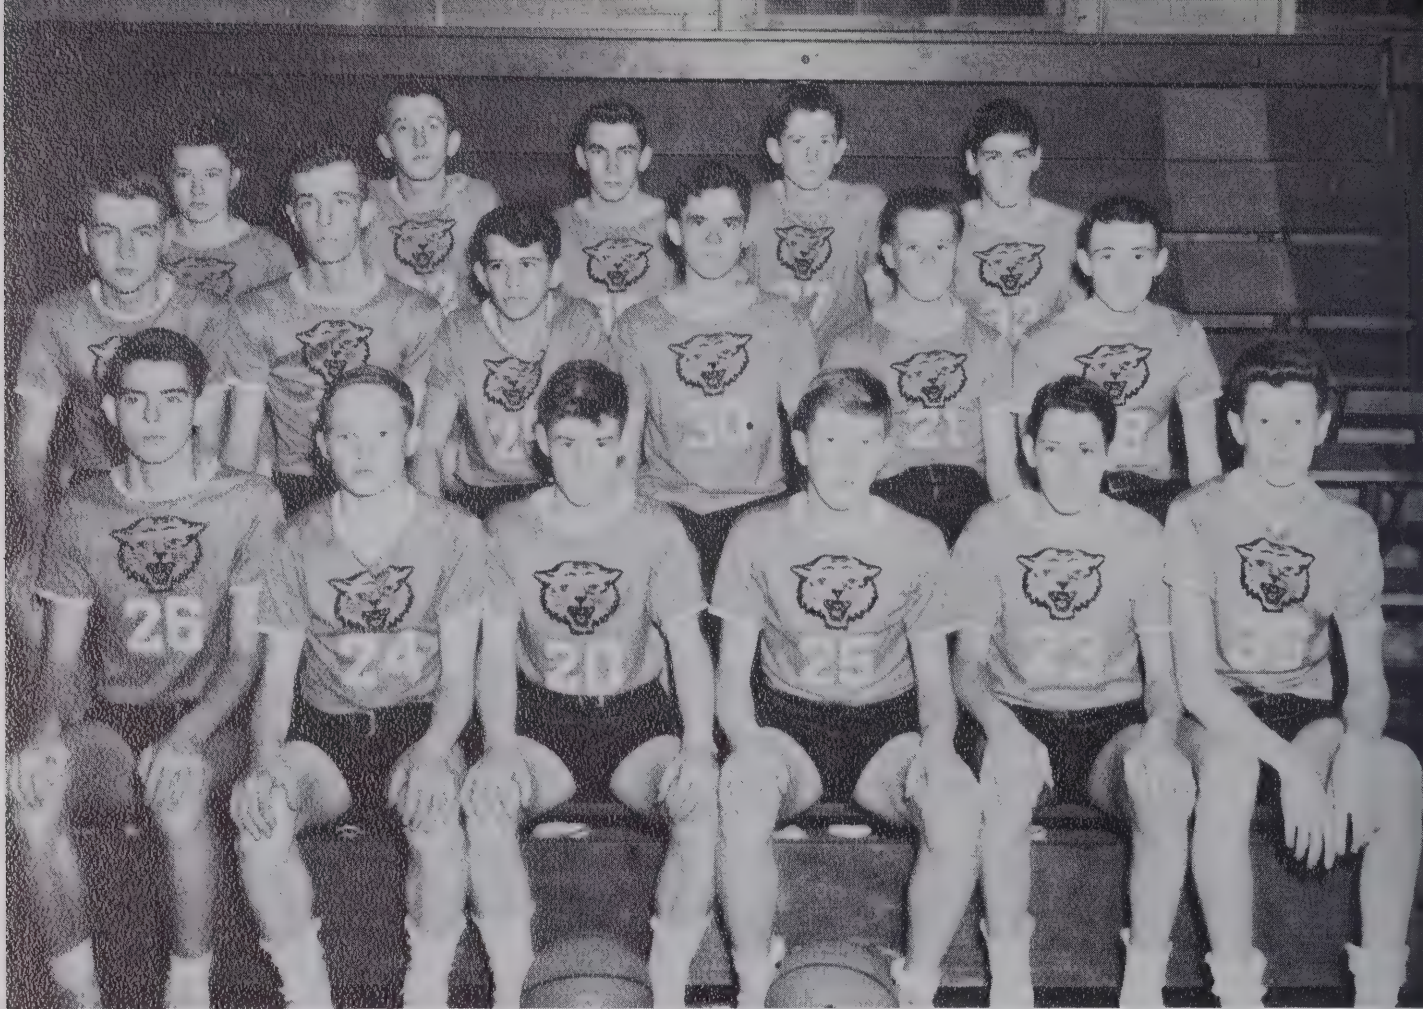

Tense moments

Harry Hayes and Burt Grant jumped high for the ball as George Gaddy and referee Sonny Furlong waited expectantly.

The 1951-1952 Varsity basketball team lived up to the excellent record set by their predecessors after a rather slow start in some of the first conference games. With Florenz Worrell as the usual starting center and the loyal support of such tall and able members as Julian Rogers, Danny Nye, Ashton Godley, Burt Grant, and Harry Hayes, it was no wonder that balls swished through the nets with such accuracy. Advancing from the Junior Varsity of last year were George Gaddy, Jon Gerdes, Don Morton, Fred Kelly, Pete Peterson, Sonny Jurgensen, Rex Hardy, and Leon Holden, all of whom made a fine showing for their first year in Varsity play and created a lasting impression among their spectators.

Cagers met tough schedule

Maurice Woodcock and Jackie Brewer worked on defense while Ernest Anderson tried a drive-in shot.

The Junior Varsity basketball squad played gallantly during the 1952 season and made an excellent showing for the school. Under the skilled direction of Coach Speacht, these cagers met with the following teams:

41	Camp Lejeune	45
62	Kinston	32
42	Wilson	38
46	Rocky Mount	20
50	Durham	35
35	Goldsboro	30

Baseball came in the spring

During the 1951 season of baseball the Wilmington team won the Eastern championship but lost to Gastonia in the game which determined the State championship. As the yearbook went to press, the players pictured above were grooming themselves for the coming season.

Tennis players and golfers

In the fall, tennis was instituted in N.H.H.S. as a regular minor sport. Coach Breedlove offered instructions to anyone who was interested in learning to play tennis, and in February the regular tennis team was chosen. They held competitive games among themselves and matched strokes with other schools. Matches were held from February 15 through May 15, in which successful teamsters set up a good record. During the year more interest in the activities of the tennis team was stimulated among the Wildcat fans. The team was grateful to Mr. Brogden for the time and energy he spent in organizing this sport.

Gene Gay, Alex Efird, and Gatchell Joye practiced for the golf team.

Last year golf was begun as a regular sport and this year instruction was continued for any prospective golfer. After preliminary instruction, the permanent members were chosen on the basis of their play in a February tournament. Since few schools in this region had golf as a competitive sport, no regular conference tournaments were held. However, the N.H.H.S. golfers traveled to the greens of several other schools. Then during April and May, Coach Jap Davis entered his team in the State meet. Through their activities the team and their followers became more conscious of golf as a wholesome and health-bringing sport.

Seated in front: Eric Oertel. Second row: Gene Butler, Carl Johnson, Ellis Ehle, Sam McMillan, Freddy Butters, Don Frost, Billy Aman, Fritz Oertel. Standing: Pete Dannenbaum, Coach Fladd.

They're in the swim

Heading for the "Y" pool for practice was a regular ritual among the members of the swimming team. This constant practice really showed dividends, when the scheduled meets were held. Early in the season Mr. Fladd was replaced by Mr. Adam Smith as coach.

Cheered "All for the Wildcats"

"It's getting about that time again—time to head for Legion Stadium and decorate goal posts for the big game tonight!" Through rainy or fair weather, the exuberant spirits of our fine cheerleaders prevailed to inspire the student body to cheer our team to another victory. Their wonderful support did not end there; they sponsored a gala football-finals dance and highly successful attractions for homecoming as a grand climax of the football season. Then came basketball season, when again the cheerleaders took the spotlight in encouraging our team. Hearty congratulations from the student body went to these pep-filled boys and girls who did so much to add to the determination of our team.
